

1. "A riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma." – Winston Churchill quote referencing the Russians
2. CLUE.TXT
 - a. Looking for a password?!

He might have enlisted Bletchly Park to figure it out, but you've probably got what it takes... and it's not "SamuelMorse" either.

Good luck with this mystery inside an enigma!

3. Encrypted ZIP
 - a. Pass: WinstonChurchill
 - i. OK, that was an easy one... but you're not there just yet.

The riddle that ol' Winston mentioned was Russia, but we're talking about a different kind of puzzle altogether.

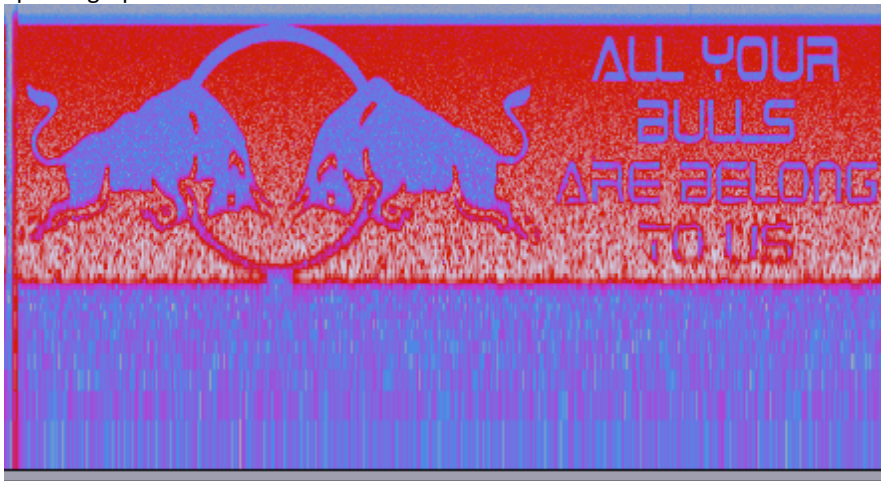

Somewhere in this box there is another password, this time for a website.

Poke, probe, and hack away at this circuit board... it's an egg hunt.

When you find the url and the password... go tell us what else you've found along the way.

Good luck for real this time... you'll need it!

- #### 4. Spectrograph

5. Konami code to secret room
 - a. 5045454C2054484520464F414D
 - i. HEX to ASCII: "PEEL THE FOAM"
 - b. Up arrow pauses animation
6. U2V0ZWmMgQXN0cm9ub2l5
 - a. <http://www.nycresistor.com/2001/03/22/u2v0zwmqgn0cm9ub2l5-2/>
 - b. Base64-encoded text string
 - i. "Setec Astronomy"
 1. Sneakers -> movie -> Too Many Secrets
7. Central blue LED is Morse code
 - a. .-- .. -. ... - .-.-. -. --..-. -. --.. -. -. .
 - i. winstonchurchill
8. Outer blue LED Morse code
 - a.- ---.. ----- ----.. -... . .-
 - i. 48007e2
 1. Serial specs???
9. Serial string data – serial bits were inverted
 - a. Strong work. Now peel up the foam that was under the circuit board to get a password to the website.

b.

